Dear DOJ;

I urge you to impose severe restrictions on Microsoft to prevent them from taking advantage of their ill-gotten market share to the detriment of the general public. They should not be allowed to "bully" their competitors as they have in the past. As a Java programmer and a Macintosh user, I have suffered doubly from their past anti-competitive practices.

I urge you to restore competition to the computer industry by imposing comprehensive restrictions and then following through with close monitoring.

Sincerely,

Don Stephens
